FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Advisory

NATO Military Committee to visit Headquarters, Supreme Allied Commander Transformation

NORFOLK, Va. The NATO Military Committee and its Chairman, Air Chief Marshal Sir Stuart Peach, will be at NATO Allied Command Transformation (ACT) on 11 and 12 March 2019.

After being welcomed to Allied Command Transformation by Commander General André Lanata, the NATO Military Committee will participate in a series of topical discussions aimed at improving situational awareness, enhancing understanding of tactical challenges and providing a thorough update on ongoing tasks.

Topics will include current works strands, such as the NATO Military Strategy, NATO's long-term exercise programme, ACT's Warfare Development agenda as well as discussions on enhancing NATO's decision-making process, improving NATO's Resilience and responses to emerging threats.

NATO's Allied Command Transformation invites interested media to join for a 30 minute background discussion on March 11 at 4:30 p.m. with Air Chief Marshal Peach and General Lanata, Supreme Allied Commander Transformation. The background discussion will be followed, at 5 pm, with the opportunity to conduct one-on-one interviews with either or both military leaders, as requested and time permitting.

Later this year, on April 4th, NATO will celebrate its 70th anniversary. The proposed 30 minute roundtable is intended to help inform members of the media about NATO's efforts to tackle the security challenges of today and tomorrow prior to that anniversary celebration when foreign ministers will be meeting in Washington, D.C.

All interested media can register on a first-come first-served basis, with Royal Navy Lt. Cmdr. Paul Kempley (paul.kempley@act.nato.int), (+1-757-747-3403) in the Allied Command Transformation Public Affairs Office by 10 a.m. EST on March 11. Media are expected to arrive at 3:45 p.m. Transport and escort into Headquarters SACT will be provided by ACT Public Affairs. Additional details will be provided following registration.
